DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-3, 5-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Staheli, USP 5,028,225 in view of Takagi et al., USP 4,875,647 for the reasons cited in the previous office action.

The cited primary reference substantially teaches the basic claimed process of molding a continuous cable tie. The detailed process steps include providing a continuous web or film of material wherein the web passes through an injection mold and a plastic material having a desired feature is molded onto the section of web material. The product is cut into individual units upon hardening of the resin. Note that cable ties is suggested, see col. 1, lines 17-22. Also see col. 3, line 30 to col. 4, line 25.

The added reference is cited to show the conventionality of molding a head configuration as claimed, onto a continuous strip of material in the molding of a cable tie. The detailed features include providing a head having head, a channel and a locking tang. The tail portion can be inserted into the head, through the channel and for a loop. See col. 3, lines 5-65 and claims 1-6.

It would have been obvious to so mold a head of the configuration as shown in the added reference, when performing the continuous molding process set forth in the primary reference, for forming a composite cable tie having the conventional head design as disclosed in the applied prior art.

Note that a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 17 March 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the art does not teach forming a continuous strap material, cutting to desired length, and then insert molding.

This is not found persuasive in view of col. 3, lines 35-67, particularly lines 64-67, wherein the dam perforates the web material prior to molding. The perforating step is readable on the claimed cutting and it would have been obvious to cut the web prior to molding for forming individual units as desired.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
